DR. JAMES E. BROOKS
PRESIDENT,
CENTRAL WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
1961 - 1978

DR. JAMES E. BROOKS: Student, Teacher and President

Dr. James E. Brooks, Central Washington University's eighth president, at the age of 35 began his administration August 1, 1961 with these words:

I've been looking forward to this moment for some time for I have several things that I have been most anxious to say to you. First, let me invite you to join me. . . in building an outstanding institution. . .

And during the past 17 years Central has experienced marked growth and achievements.

At the time of his inauguration, President Brooks was the youngest college president in the state. And just as he was the youngest then, he is now the seasoned dean of all college and university presidents in Washington.

However when he began his presidency he was even then no stranger to Central. He addressed the student body in the spring of 1962:

I am not a newcomer to the college itself. As a graduate of Central, I have my roots firmly planted here, and I am happy to be playing my role in this drama of Central's exciting present and promising future.

As a student at Central he was vice president of his freshman class, homecoming co-chairman in his senior year, and a member of the Honor Council. He received his degree from Central in 1950 in education with a major in social science. At the University of Washington Dr. Brooks earned his M.A. and his Ph.D. degrees in geography in 1952 and 1957.

Having been praised as an "educator, a scholar, and an administrator," Dr. James E. Brooks was selected to be President of the then Central Washington State College.

President Brooks has seen Central grow from 2,266 students in 1961 to 7,900 students in 1977-1978. He has directed the academic growth of the University from a single interest in teacher education to a multipurpose University offering 99 undergraduate programs with three baccalaureate degrees and four graduate degrees. More than one half of the buildings on Central's 350 acre campus have been constructed during the last 10 years of President Brooks' tenure.

President Brooks is a man with many interests. He has represented Central on numerous state and national associations including the Washington State Council for Postsecondary Education, the Washington State Council of Presidents, the Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. While at Central, Dr. Brooks has established particularly close relationships with the state's business community. He conceived and nurtured the development of the Presidents Seminars where college and university Presidents meet yearly with Presidents of the state's leading businesses, and the very successful Business Weeks for high school juniors held on Central's campus.

President Brooks has received many honors and awards. He was an Honorary Trustee for the Northwest Scientific Association, State Library Week Committee, and the Keep Washington Green Association, Incorporated. He was the First President of, and served on the Board of Directors of, the Natural Resources Forum of Washington. In 1966-1967, President Brooks was selected as an Administrative Intern for the Thailand Program by the Agency for International Development and the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. And in 1968, he was one of the first group of 20 selected nationally to receive a Danforth Foundation Short-Term Leave Grant for travel and study in Europe and the United States. Dr. Brooks is also an Honorary Founder of the Intercollegiate Knights, a National Service Fraternity.

As President James E. Brooks leaves the Presidency of Central Washington University after 17 years, we all join in wishing him continued success in his future endeavors. He has left an indelible mark on Central and higher education in the state and nation.

CENTRAL WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Early in 1890 the state legislature located the Washington State Normal School in Ellensburg for the purpose of "training and educating teachers in the art of instructing and governing in the public schools of this state." The town reacted with an enormous yawn. Most citizens envisioned Ellensburg as the new "Pittsburgh" or the new "Denver" in comparison with which a normal school was hardly worthy of notice. The dashing of grand economic dreams in the hard times of the 1890's and the quality of young men and women produced at the Normal School soon changed indifference to enthusiasm. The local press reported that graduation ceremonies packed the local opera house to every nook and cranny to witness a day long orgy of essays, oratory, and musical numbers presented by the graduating class. All agreed that the school's products displayed "originality, depth of conception and language and . . . a very high standard of mental activity, good taste and intelligence." Even allowing for a bit of nineteenth century hyperbole, it is true enough that many public schools in the state were soon staffed by graduates of the Normal School who demonstrated better training and greater dedication than teachers previously hired primarily because of availability.

During the years down to the depression of the 1930's the school slowly added faculty (growing from four in 1891 to forty-seven in 1929 of which seventeen were men and thirty women), students (eighty-six and 580 in the same years), and buildings. Barge Hall stood as the lone edifice in the 1890's but was joined by McConnell, Shaw, Smyser, Hebel, the student union, and other structures by 1938. The 1930's saw a quantitative decline, but a high quality student body and faculty provided the silver lining in a depression cloud. Able students from the region came to Central because they could not afford to go elsewhere and excellent faculty were not choosy about accepting any job available. A high percentage of these students of the 1930's and early 1940's went on to distinguished careers in many different fields. Unfortunately the faculty dispersed during the war years and in the post-war era the college was forced to build a new staff at a time when there was vigorous national competition for quality faculty.

The first change in the school's declared mission came in the 1930's. After several years of effort by the college administration, the legislature in 1933 permitted granting of the bachelor's degree. This action was delayed recognition that the curriculum included the sciences and liberal arts as well as pedagogy. Four years later the school's name changed to Central Washington

College of Education, or as the students preferred, Sweecy. Swelled by returning veterans in the years after World War II, the college underwent another period of rapid growth in faculty, students, and facilities which lasted until the early 1970's. The increasing diversity of programs, including graduate degrees, and faculty expertise were again reflected by name changes--in 1961 to Central Washington State College and in 1977 to Central Washington University. Although the 1970's brought a decline in enrollment, the experience of earlier periods of the university's history indicates that quality is not necessarily equated with quantity. Students, faculty, and staff in 1978 and in the future might dedicate themselves to fulfilling the prophecy of E. C. Hewett, the featured speaker at the dedication of the Normal School on September 15, 1891, who eloquently declaimed:

As the sparkling waters from your mountains, led down into the waiting soil, giving greenness and beauty, flowers and fruitage, where all was barrenness and desolation before; so it is given to us to believe that as the future years in the history of the commonwealth unroll, there shall go forth from this fountain perennial streams of influence that shall make glad all this great state, through all the coming time.

A GUIDE TO ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The caps, gowns, and hoods worn at college and university functions date back to the Middle Ages. Monks and students of those days wore them to keep warm in the damp, drafty twelfth century castles and halls of learning. Today in this country, they are used only for formal academic ceremonies.

Various Degrees

Each college degree has a distinctive hood and black gown. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the highest degree are worn.

The gowns for the Bachelor's degree, earned after four years of undergraduate study, have a square yoke with shirring across the shoulders and back. The Bachelor's gown is primarily distinguished by its full open sleeves, coming to a point.

The holder of the Master's degree, won by an additional year of post graduate work, wears a gown with a yoke similar to the Bachelor's but the distinctive long narrow sleeves are closed at the end and trail below the arms.

Gowns for the Doctor's degree, earned for at least three years of advanced graduate study and research, carry broad velvet panels down the front and three velvet bars on the full round bell-shaped sleeves. This velvet trim may be either black or the color of the field of learning to which it pertains.

Academic Colors

It is the hood that gives color and real meaning to the academic costume. A black shell, of varying sizes for the three degrees, is silk-lined with the colors of the institution conferring the degree. The hood is then bordered with velvet of the color signifying the field of learning to which the degree pertains.

The border colors for the various academic disciplines are:

Arts, Letters . . . . .	White	Library Science . . . . .	Lemon
Commerce . . . . .	Drab	Medicine . . . . .	Green
Economics . . . . .	Copper	Music . . . . .	Pink
Education . . . . .	Light Blue	Nursing . . . . .	Apricot
Engineering . . . . .	Orange	Philosophy . . . . .	Dark Blue
Fine Arts . . . . .	Brown	Physical Education . . . . .	Sage Green
Journalism . . . . .	Crimson	Science . . . . .	Golden Yellow
Law . . . . .	Purple	Speech . . . . .	Silver Gray
Theology . . . . .	Scarlet

It is the field of learning and not the department in which major work was done which governs the color of the velvet for the hood.
