TAYLOR TO SPEAK ON EUROPEAN CRISIS TO TUES. ASSEMBLY

"Miserable Europe Must Select Path," says Ransom T. Taylor, who will lecture to the Central Washington College students and faculty members at a school assembly in the college auditorium next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

"The war has reduced the people of Europe to irrational beings, and yet these people are forced to make one of the most tragic decisions in the history of the world in their choice between communism or democracy and free enterprise," says Mr. Taylor, foreign language expert, writer and member of the army intelligence staff at General Eisenhower's headquarters during the later war years.

A resident of Europe for 17 years, and a member of the American forces occupying Germany after the cessation of hostilities, Mr. Taylor decries those Americans who make brief tours of Europe, "moving from one officers' club to another and who return and say that there is no starvation in the war-torn countries of Europe."

"In the efforts of the Allies to create order out of chaos in Europe," Mr. Taylor will tell his audience, "we did not realize that what was being done was nonsense. Much of the effort of the past two years was wasted—as proven by the need for calling a special session of Congress."

"Under the deplorable existing conditions, Europeans are forced to make the greatest choice of their lives; they must choose between the democratic way of life and communism. They must choose between the system of reason or the system of power."

"The system of reason provides for groups of people to get together and figure out problems of common interest. This system usually has prevailed in good times—although it is a slower process. The system of power is facism or communism."

"History shows that the communist plan is not as good as the plan of free enterprise. The totalitarian system welds great power into the hands of a few, but this power has always proven too great. It is unbalanced. There has always been a catastrophe with it," Mr. Taylor continues.

Mr. Taylor will urge his audience

REGISTRAR NOTICE

Tomorrow is the last day to drop a course, according to Edward B. Rogel, registrar.

Next Monday is the first day to pay course fees.

Graduating seniors and people planning on getting emergency certificates should apply immediately through the registrar's office.

Registration Highest In School's History

A complete breakdown from the registrar's office shows that a new all time high of 1145 students are enrolled at Central Washington College. This shows an increase of 19 over the record of 1126 set last fall quarter.

Percentage of men and women students was not given by Edward B. Rogel, registrar, but a complete breakdown of the enrollment figures will be available this week and should appear in next week's Crier.

Honor Council Election Feb. 17

Petitions for Honor Council candidates must be filed before noon Feb. 4, says Mrs. Pat Casey Miller, chairman of the Honor Council.

An all-school election will be held Feb. 17 to determine who is to fill the four vacancies created when the term of office expires for four of the present members at the end of Winter quarter.

The petitions must be filed with either Mrs. Miller, Phil George or Collene Cameron, a permanent committee appointed by the executive council of the SGA for the purpose of conducting this election.

Each petition must contain 20 signatures of other students. Any one student's name must not appear on more than one petition or all petitions containing this person's name will be automatically annulled, according to Mrs. Miller.

Two women students and two men students will be elected. There must be at least three candidates for each office before the election can be held, according to the constitution of the SGA.

Each candidate must be at least a second quarter junior before he is eligible to hold office on the Council.

Those whose term of office will expire at the end of Winter quarter are, Mrs. Miller, John Hofstrand, Rose Orso, and Milt Dallman who was recently appointed to fill the unexpired term of John Beck. Members whose terms will expire at the end of Spring quarter are Howard Foster and Winnie Williams.

to make up their minds now as to what we are going to do about the situation in Europe and to help Europe through material aid by supporting government plans, by offering spiritual aid to Europe, and by demonstrating that democracy can work, according to information received by The Crier.

"The fate of Europe may well determine whether this shall be a world of free men or of slaves," Mr. Taylor will state when he addresses the assembly Tuesday.

NEW GROUP MAKES APPEARANCE ON CW CAMPUS THIS WEEK

BY A MEMBER

Organization was completed last week and actual work began this week for a new group that has made its appearance on the Central Washington campus.

As yet without a name, the primary purpose of the group is to study contemporary social thought. Composed of its entirety of social science majors or its equivalent pre-professional students, the group may deviate from its original purpose from time to time and study other pressing problems of the day. Evidently different than most clubs, the infant organization has only one elective office, that of secretary. That position is not an executive office but rather as the name implies, secretary of the group.

The secretary was designated by the group to draw up a charter or constitution that would conform with the decisions of the club. Upon its passing the club by vote it will be submitted to the Student Government Association executive board for its approval, and thus become an organization of the campus.

The group will meet once every two weeks for the purpose of study. A different member of the club will act as chairman at each study meeting. It will be the chairman's duty to arrange a program on any subject that he choose, providing it is alright with the group as a whole.

Central Washington professors and out of town speakers will be asked to talk to the group occasionally. A period of each study time will be devoted to group discussion.

Supposedly the group is organized in such a manner that the members will not only learn something about contemporary social thought but that he will receive valuable experience in leadership abilities, character, tolerance, and endurance.

Present members of the club include, Molly Hewson, secretary, Willy Pool, Philip Parker, Gerald Varner, Don Dowie, Keith Keplinger, Jack Shore, John Garney, John Martin, Jim Martin, Gene Mayer and Carl Carlson.

Advisor for the group is Mr. Selton Smyser, retired social science professor.

Off-Campus Carnival Due to Arrive On Or Before Jan. 31

The annual Off-Campus carnival sponsored jointly by the Off-Campus Women and Off-Campus Men will be held in the women's gym on Saturday, Jan. 31.

Booths will set up with such attractions as shooting galleries, bowling games, refreshments and others. Prizes will be given to winners of skill contests. An added attraction will be a sideshow.

The midway will be open from 8 to 9:30 p. m., after which there will be dancing.

OCW MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Off-Campus Women in the OCW Club room in the Campus Club on Jan. 22 at 7 p. m., according to an unconfirmed report received by The Crier.

From the same source comes the news that it is an important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

A CHALLENGE

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Genis of Kamola apartments and Mr. Jack Shore of Veterville requested The Crier to print a challenge to arms to the faculty members who play bridge.

Shore says that he has devised a new method of bidding that he calls "free choice" and he believes it will really click against the faculty.

Cheney Savages To Open Series Against Wildcats Here Tomorrow

Mired in the second division of the current Winco league basketball chase, the Eastern Washington College Savages will clash with the Central Washington Wildcats tomorrow and Saturday nights on the local floor.

This series will mark the first meeting between the two clubs this year. Last season saw the two teams ending the regular season in a deadlock for the title. Eastern later won the playoff and the right to enter the Kansas City Invitational Tournament.

Tabbed, along with Central, by most experts as the club to watch before the season started, Eastern has managed to salvage only one game while losing two in conference play. Their lone victory was over St. Marins which they won by a closing drive in the late minutes of the game. The Savages were beaten twice in their season openers by the league leading P.L.C. Lutes.

In non-conference play, Coach Red Reese's Savages have compiled an impressive record including wins over Idaho of the Northern Coast Conference and the strong independent Gonzaga Bulldogs.

Eastern is led by George Gablehouse, who was one of the Savages' stars on last years conference championship team. Gablehouse is an ex-Selah High school star. Mal Dix, a freshman guard from Spokane has been showing up well this season and is a big cog in the Eastern machine.

Earlier in the week Coach Leo Nicholson of the Wildcats threw a damper on Central spirits, when he announced that it was probable Fred Peterson would not be in condition to take the floor against the Savages.

Dr. McCONNELL TO ATTEND AATC

President F. E. McConnell will represent Central Washington College at the American Association of Teachers Colleges to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., the week of Feb. 18 to 24, according to information just released from the president's office.

During the conference Dr. McConnell will participate in a panel discussion in which the question, "Should the AATC Establish Relations with other Educational Organizations and Agencies," will be the central theme.

He is also on the nominating committee for national officers. This group will meet in the Ambassador Hotel on Feb. 20. Dr. McConnell attended the annual meet of the AATC in Atlantic City last year.

The American Association of School Administrators will meet in conjunction with the AATC.

"Dear Ruth" Play Tryouts Scheduled For This Week

Mr. Norman Howell of the CWC drama dept. announced the selection of the Broadway hit "Dear Ruth" as the project of the college thespians for winter quarter.

Tryouts for the production will begin upon arrival of the scripts sometime this week. It was emphasized by Mr. Howell that participation in the play is not limited to any one group. All interested persons are encouraged to try for a role.

Written by Norman Krasna "Dear Ruth" was well hailed by the New York drama critics. Ward Morehouse of the New York Sun says, "Mr. Krasna has written some bright dialogue for "Dear Ruth," which is in six scenes and two acts. There is humor and believe ability about the people of his play—"

The Ellensburg Kittitas Flying School had as its guests on Friday January 16, five Sue Lombard girls. The girls: Myrtle Hatcher, Corrine and Nadine Powell, Zoe Starkweather, and Carol Iles received rides in Piper Cub aircraft, and a chance to examine flight control.

WSSF Drive Plan Nears Completion

Plans are underway to make the World Student Service Drive, to be conducted during the week of Feb. 2 to 7, a huge success, according to Jim Adamson, president of the executive board of the Student Government Association.

The SGA will conduct the Tuesday assembly program of Feb. 3 in connection with this drive. The drive will also be carried to the basketball game of Feb. 4 to be played against Witworth College at the Morgan Junior High Gym. No definite plans have been decided on in connection with the program at the game.

Each club has been asked to appoint a committee to solicit any amount the club members care to give. The Iyoptians will be in charge of soliciting from the faculty members.

The Herodoteans have tentatively planned a dance for the night of Feb. 7 with proceeds going to the drive.

All money collected in connection with this drive will be turned over to the WSSF for the purpose of aiding needy students in war torn foreign countries.

Three Dining Halls Doing More Business Than Ever Before

A new all time high of 2,460 meals are being served daily at the three college dining halls according to figures just released from Miss Barbara Hoffman, director of dormitories.

This includes service to 820 campus and off campus students. This quarter, Sue Lombard's cafeteria, largest of the three is serving 1140 meals per day or complete service to 380 students and faculty members.

Next largest is the Walnut street dining hall, serving 260 students residing in Alford, Carmody, Munro, and Montgomery halls. This cafeteria does not cater to off campus students who are served at Sue and Munson.

The newest addition to the dining halls is the Munson cafeteria where 180 Munson and off campus men receive meal service daily.

May Exchange Guests To Dining Halls Now

A new policy is now in effect in regards to the College dining halls whereby the students may invite guests to dinner on Wednesday and lunch on Sunday, according to Miss Barbara Hoffman, director of dormitories.

Guests may be invited to any dining hall but reservations should be made on Mondays and Thursdays Miss Hoffman said. Reservations may be made to the student employee who checks meal tickets.

AFTER GAME MIXERS

The girls pep club will sponsor after game mixers after the two basketball games this weekend according to the SGA social calendar.

As the Crier went to press, no news of arrangements or definite plans were available.

Provided the dances are held they will be in the women's gym after each game, Friday and Saturday evening, according to the social calendar.

Looking For a Debating Team

This school needs a debating team. Since several people seem to be interested in participating in such an activity it seems that the logical thing to do would be to organize one. This writer believes that should an ambitious individual call a meeting of all people who are interested, this individual would get plenty of response, especially from the social science students.

Not only would there be plenty of response but it should work out pretty good. There are people in this school with talent that could be very well directed toward the debating field. Someone who has a little knowledge about debating should accept this challenge and look into the matter. The Crier will stand-by and assist in any work that is done along this line.

Debating is certainly good experience that any hopeful aspirant to a higher position in practically any field of work should not want to miss. It serves to build character, speaking ability, tolerance, thinking capacities, and competitive enterprise in the individual. Hopeful teachers, lawyers, politicians, dramatists, and others should not laugh off an offer of this type without a little consideration.

Crier Wants Letters

The Crier is attempting to inaugurate a better editorial page. Students may help in this attempt by writing letters to the editor. Letters should be concise and to the point, preferably not more than 200 words. They may be written about anything pertaining to the Central Washington College. Constructive criticism will receive special consideration. Criticism of The Crier will be welcomed and printed if the code of morals permit.

The Crier does not intend to turn itself into a grip sheet. But constructive criticism, although it may hurt someone's feelings, often serves as a helper rather than an obstacle. Common sense will tell what should be said and what should be held. But should a letter to the editor be received that is unfit for publication, the Crier staff will show the letter to proper authorities so that action may be taken to alleviate the conditions discussed in the letter.

All letters must be signed by the author for protection of The Crier, but the name will be withheld from publication upon request.

The Crier Explains

It seems that many students are not satisfied with the type of material being covered in The Campus Crier. Perhaps an explanation and answer from the Crier is not out of order.

In the first place, as it looks from here, the students are being very narrow minded as they make such comments. They are narrow minded in the respect that they have no sound reasoning behind such statements.

Don't get the wrong idea. The Crier welcomes constructive criticism but scorns destructive criticism. Constructive criticism concerns suggestions based on reasoning and sound judgement. Destructive criticism is the act of making derogatory remarks about the Crier such as the act of saying, "It stinks" and letting it go at that. The only thing that could possibly be accomplished from such a remark is discouragement of some hard working or conscientious staff member. It tells nothing, it helps no one.

To prevent misunderstandings, any student who is interested enough in The Crier to want to offer constructive criticism should consider the following points before blowing his lid: 1. Consider that this is a school paper and that all campus activities should deserve a certain amount of space in the Crier. 2. That The Crier staff is composed of inexperienced people who are more or less interested in learning something about good journalism. 3. That The Crier is subject to mistakes.

Two primary objectives were outlined to The Crier staff at a meeting last week by this writer. They are: that first of all our purpose is to publish a school paper that would cover all school activities as much as possible and in a manner that is acceptable to the students as much as possible; and second, that the staff should be given as much experience as possible in good journalism. If these two tasks are not worthy, publication may as well be suspended.

It is hoped that this will serve as an explanation rather than an apology.

Editor Receives Interesting Letter; Gives An Answer

(Editor's note: The following is the first letter received by the editor of The Campus Crier this quarter. The same is printed in full. Note: The editor gives an answer, printed at end of letter. If you like excitement, don't turn the page without reading this).

Dear Editor,
In your last edition you said Quote: "The new editor of the paper is openly against 'the dirt' because he considers it to be (to) infantile to deserve space in a college publication. However, since the Crier is a student publication, the editor has agreed to adhere to the demand of the student majority, 'Unquote.'"

First, I would like to comment on the statement you made about "infantile." You did not list the percentage of students for or against the column. For the benefit of the curious, it was approximately 95% FOR and 5% AGAINST, and that is an understatement of the percentage for.

Thus, you are making a statement that 95% of the students are infantile. You may have the right as any person has to criticize almost anything, but I for one, do not care to be called infantile. If I, or the rest of the 95%, were infants or childish, how did we manage to get this far in life, Mr. Editor.

Yes, I realize that the ones opposed to the Column in question are upperclassmen, but the rest of the school is not too dumb. And, although you say the majority rules was it not a fact that you were not going to print the column at all but that you were persuaded to do same by members of the staff other than myself? Then, you instigated the use of the poll as another means of stopping publication of the column.

After the results were ascertained, you then wrote an article, not signed, using the words "new editor" and "he" making the above quoted statements. Also you are not doing the students a favor by agreeing to run the column. You have to agree to the majority. If you could not produce what the students demanded you have no business as an editor. Theoretically, you are elected by the students, and actually you carry out their demands.

The former Editor was against the dirt, but he made no attempt to stop it. In fact he appointed a member of the staff to compile STUDENT contributions and then fill in if insufficient material was collected.

Other than the one edition in which I was assisted by a co-editor I very much doubt your finding of much real "dirt." In fact, I have had numerous complaints that the "Truth Anonymous" column was too tame.

If the students should express their opinions via letters to the editor or verbally to some member of the staff, the column will most certainly contain the students' choice.

Right Mr. Editor?
Benny

Editor's Reply

Thank you Benny,

We are always very pleased to hear from a reader. If nothing else it tells us one thing—that there is someone who reads The Crier who is interested enough in it to write a letter to the editor.

Your type of letter gives us an excellent chance to test the students of Central, to see if they have enough energy left to become excited over a little battle of wits.

But getting back to the letter, I can readily see where you have some points that are true, some points that the students of the college deserve to hear about. But in the first place, Benny, it seems that you are just a bit one sided in your argument.

It is true that a news story in The Crier stated that the gossip column was (to) infantile to deserve space in a college publication, and that this was the editor's belief. But there were no direct quotes as you intimated, and the (to) was undoubtedly a typographical error. It was intended to be (too) as anyone could plainly understand.

Your greatest misstatement said 95% of the CWC students were "infantile." You get a copy of last week's Crier and show me where that is printed and I will give my most humble apologies.

It is true that I was openly opposed to the gossip column, and it is true that I consented to run such only because of apparent student demand. And I did not conform to student majority necessarily because I had to or get out, but I agreed to conform to student demands because such was in my original policy as outlined to the staff.

It is true that I believe many people do not know what is best for themselves (including myself). But who am I, a mere human, to be in a position to tell other humans what they should have. That is the basis for my policy of "student demand" rules. That, supposedly, is the American way.

If you would take it on yourself to do a little investigating, Benny you would find the following: The Campus Crier is one of the few college publications of the Pacific Northwest containing a gossip column, and, that The Campus Crier managed to get along without such a column for many years. The present one was inaugurated last year.

You would also find nothing in the SGA constitution that says there must be a gossip column in The Crier. Incidentally, The Crier is a function of the SGA.

I could continue for hours, Benny, as undoubtedly you could have, but let us stop here and see if we draw any fire from the other 1143 students enrolled at Central Washington College.

For a better student publication I remain

AWS Scholarship Will Be Awarded

BY MARY HITCHCOCK

The Associated Women Students Council wish to remind the girls of the scholarships to be awarded on Mothers' Day.

The A.W.S. Scholarship Plaque hangs on the living room wall at Sue Lombard Hall, where it has hung for the past three years, having been won by the Sue girls for three consecutive years. Previous to this, it had hung for three years on the wall of the Off-Campus Women's room.

The plaque is awarded on the basis of the group's grade point average for the Fall and Winter quarters. The Fall quarter is water under the bridge, but the Winter quarter is still young, and it is rumored that the Sue girls are studying hard to keep their plaque.

The Kamola girls think that by the law of averages, they should be next in line, but then there is fresh competition in the field this year—Montgomery Hall.

I.K.'s Initiation Ends This Week

The annual initiation of the Intercollegiate Knights will be completed after a full week's activities as 11 new members will be admitted as members in good standing tomorrow evening, according to Phil George, Guard of the I. K.'s.

The ceremonies will terminate with a pie eating contest to be held at half time of the basketball game against Eastern.

One of the feature attractions of the initiation is the requirement that each initiate carry a sword symbol of the organization. The sword is carried in shifts of eight hours for each initiate. At the end of this eight hour shift he gives it to a fellow initiate. The exchange must take place in front of the sundial by the Ad building regardless of the time of day or night, according to George.

It is traditional for the "W" Club to attempt to take the sword away from the initiates at any time it is left unguarded, or so say the I. K. members.

Another requirement is that the initiate must carry a raw egg, with him at all times during initiation week. This egg must contain the signatures of 16 faculty members including those of the president and the dean of women. Should the egg be broken, the initiate must get another egg and start again.

According to George, new members are selected via the following method. At the beginning of Fall quarter each old member may select any two people to be put on a trial basis. These probable candidates are judged by their service pledges, and then the old members vote to determine who the new members will be. Each year enough new members are selected to keep the local membership up to a par of 30.

Th people who are being initiated this week are; Don Lowe, Harry Bush, Bill Cable, Ben Farrell, Claude Fredricks, Carl Fulkerson, Donicio Tobia, Ronald Nelson, Bill Ranniger, Rodney Knowlton, and Don Mitchell.

The Intercollegiate Knights is a national service organization. It was organized locally in 1936. Its many duties include, the nomination and coronation of the homecoming queen, decorating the ball room for formal dances, and generally assisting in other social and sporting events.

REQUEST TO FILL ACTIVITY CARDS

Seniors are busy these days calling on their favorite professors to ask permission to use their names as references for placement.

The selection of teachers usually begins early in the Winter quarter. The next few weeks will bring as visitors to the campus many principals and superintendents in quest of teachers.

Notices have gone out from the Dean of Women's office to all senior girls requesting them to fill out their activity cards, since faculty members often refer to them when writing recommendations.

Teacher's Meet Here Feb. 9-10

Educators from all counties of the state have been invited to attend a conference on the improvement of teaching to be held at Central Washington College of Education, Ellensburg, February 9 and 10, in co-operation with the state office of Public Instruction. Pres. R. E. McConnell announced this week.

Dr. A. John Bartky, dean of the school of education at Stanford University, will be the principal conference speaker. The conference will deal with the selection, education and in-service training of teachers looking toward the upgrading of school teaching personnel. Ernest L. Muzzall, director of instruction at Central, will be general chairman.

On February 9, the forenoon session will deal with the school program and its requirements for teacher education. The afternoon session of the same day is to deal with the education of teachers. On February 10, the session will deal in the recruitment, selection and in-service education of teachers.

County superintendents, elementary school principals, high school principals and superintendents will attend the conference. All school people are invited to attend, Dr. McConnell said.

TO ATTEND MEET

President R. E. McConnell will attend a meeting of the National Educational Association in Boise, Idaho, on Jan. 26 and 27.

The purpose of the meeting will be to work out plans for action in states on current problems, according to Dr. McConnell.

TAYLOR ADDRESSES COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

"Our policy towards China is one of 'limited liability' while we look toward Europe with a policy of 'unlimited liability!'" said Dr. George E. Taylor, head of the faculty of the Far Eastern Institute of the University of Washington, as he addressed a group of Central Washington College students and faculty members at a school assembly last week.

Speaking on the subject, "American Policy in China," he emphasized a need for a more liberal American policy toward China.

The way of thinking of the average Chinese citizen toward America has changed considerably during the past few years, according to Dr. Taylor. The Chinese formerly looked toward America for aid, with confidence that aid would come, but today the attitude has changed to one of hopeful doubt.

China feels that the United States is giving too much assistance to Japan, former enemy of both nations, and not enough to China, Dr. Taylor said.

Devoting part of his time to explaining reasons for slow developments in China, Taylor stressed the roll that tradition has played in retarding Chinese progress. The difficulty of the Chinese languages was given as one reason for a high illiteracy rate in China.

Contrary to expectations, Dr. Taylor declined to express any opinions on the Chinese political situation. Touching the subject briefly, he said that he believed the withdrawal of American Marines had little bearing on the communist drive.

Dr. Taylor is a native of England. He studied in England and America before going to China in 1930. During the war he served with the Office of the War Information of the Far East.

He became head of the faculty of the Far Eastern Institute of the University of Washington in 1945.

The science department recently received two new short wave receiving sets. The sets, of the most recent design, are part of an allotment given to C.W.C.E. by the government. The supplies are surplus materials that the government has been giving to educational institutes free. The only charge on the order is for transportation.

The materials were obtained

McArthur Talks To Wesley Club

"The work of the Friends Ambulance Unit in China" was the topic of a speech given to a meeting of the Wesley Foundation by Professor Harold McArthur, of the science department, last Sunday evening.

Talking of his experiences in China, Mr. McArthur stressed the importance of the job done by the Friends Ambulance Unit in China which included trucking and distributing of medical supplies which reached China, the operation of medical teams, assisting the army in operating the hospitals, distributing relief supplies, and others.

The Friends Ambulance Unit was created by the Quaker during the Franco-Prussian war and was continued through both world wars, Mr. McArthur said.

He went on to give a detailed report of the purpose of the unit and his observations as to the success of such an organization.

Near the conclusion of his speech, he stressed the importance of the experience obtained from serving in such a unit for young men. Such experience is just as valuable for the individual as compulsory military training and it is carried out in a democratic fashion, Mr. McArthur said.

In closing he stressed the importance of well trained teams operating in China. Well trained teams of medical men, educators, nurses, engineers, and so forth do much for the advancement of Chinese culture he said.

SAALE MEETS

Charles W. Saale, chairman of the education and psychology division at Central Washington College, met with teachers of the Toppenish public schools Monday and Tuesday of this week. On Monday, he spoke to all teachers at a general meeting on the subject of "The Meaning of Reading." Tuesday's session included discussion periods with elementary school teachers.

Traveler—Yes, this is a cozy little apartment, but I don't see any bath.

Landlady—Oh, pardon me! I thought you were another one of those boys from Central that wants a place just for the winter.

THREE SUE GIRLS GO ON AIR SATURDAY

A new and novel way to spend a Saturday afternoon was found on January 17, by Myrtle Hatcher, Mary Lou James, and Corinne Powell, all of the Sue Lombard hall.

They were chosen as contestants on Station KXLE, to participate in the Pacific Northwest Broadcasters Thousand Mile Quiz.

Securing fourth place in the contest, the girls acquired thirty-one points out of a possible fifty.

The girls were escorted to and from the studio by Marty Goshwin, KXLE sportscaster.

Honor Council Speaks

MESSAGE SENT TO CENTRAL STUDENTS FROM THE HONOR COUNCIL OF THE SGA

(Editor's Note: The following is a message from the Honor Council evidently directed to the students of Central Washington College. Ideas or views expressed in this message does not necessarily represent those of The Crier or any of its staff members.)

Since the beginning of our democratic state we have believed in and promoted a representative type of government, which has embodied the three branches known as the executive, legislative, and judiciary.

Last week the legislative branch was quite fully covered in an article 'SGA in Limelight' in which the function and duties are clearly outlined as effecting you as students of CWCE.

In a like manner we introduce the Honor Council, representing the judiciary branch of our Democracy. Composed of three boys and three girls, all students of upper class standing, it represents a complete cross-section of campus experience. With a sympathetic understanding of student problems, we function for, by, and with the students as a counseling agency. In any situation effecting the individual, the group, or the school we are more than willing to give help in the best possible manner. This is your organization, to control and promote as you see fit. We represent your likes and dislikes and above all, we are working for you at all times.

Any problems arising in the dormitories will be handled by your house council. At their discretion problems of a more serious nature will be referred to us for a solution. If we fail in our attempts to properly solve the problem we have no recourse but to refer it to the Faculty Welfare Committee for their able decision. It is our belief, however, that problems of students can be and should be, handled by a student organization of your own choosing to insure yourself of a fair and competent decision.

With your support we can eliminate administrative domination from our school life to a large degree—and in so doing, learn the things that will prepare us better for later life.

CARMODY MAKES ATHLETIC PLANS

Carmody Hall won a practice game with Off Campus, 21-14, last week.

The members of the team are: Elten Richardson, Ledo Molmossarr, Glen Emmerton, Lloyd G. Williams, Henry Baumgart, Ralph Ruff, Bob Leek, Harold Thomas, Norman Benjamin, Bruce Wiese, Ken Wipple, Bob Faull and Louise Frehning. Bob Faull was high point man.

"The team looked good," said Fred Jaber, coach. "With a little more practice we ought to do pretty good. There will be no starting line up as I shall start different boys each time and all will get a chance to play."

New members to Carmody Hall this quarter are: Don Doran, Don Ettinger, Don Fenton, Bob Leet, Harold Larsen, Willard Schooler, Page Peterson, Willis Page and Tom Garette. Some of these boys moved from off campus and some are new this quarter.

PARTY AT SUE

Saturday night, January 17, found Delma Tomsic and Carol Iles Sue Lombard, the hostesses for a party honoring Shirley Gates and Gloria Steiger, who have been visiting the girls for the weekend. The visitors are from Auburn. Attending the party were Glenna Wakley, Mary Lou Dunn, and Theo Miller.

In answer to Douglas Poage's poem in the last issue, we offer this ditty by a Pudget Sound Poet)

JUNKED BY A JEEP

Bright blue eyes
and golden curls,
Knee length skirt
With revealing swirls,
With a wolfish stare
At her lovely limb,
I walked in front
Of a ton of tin.
But as in the fracture
Ward I lay,
I could not hold
With those who say:
"Why don't you look
Where you are going?"
I'd rather go
Where I am looking!

Constitution Plan For Alford Hall

"Alford Hall is going to be organized," stated Eugene Mayer, newly elected president. "We are forming a constitution and fashioning it after that of the other halls. Up till now Alford hasn't had any constitutional form of government."

At the meeting held last week Dean Fisk and Jim Adamson, S.G.A. president, were present to help with the organization of the hall.

Dean Fisk believed, "The only way the boys could have an orderly hall is to pass a constitution and then to live up to it."

Adamson said, "The Honor Council will back up you and your constitution, after it had been approved by the council."

At the meeting new officers were elected. Other officers are: Calvin Bartholomew, vice president, Raymond Carr, secretary-treasurer, Don Carr, social chairman and Robert Richardson, sports chairman. The Sergeants-At-Arms are Guz King, left wing, and Dan Brodaczynski, right wing.

The officers were elected to draw up the constitution and present it for acceptance before the hall:

New members of Carmody hall are: Arthur Belcher, George Harris, Robert La Roux, Arthur Nordang, Quenten Sealles, LeRoy Shuey, Don Slidham, Robert Warren, Ben Zaida and Ben Zwanzig. Some of these boys moved from off campus and some are new this quarter.

Munro Hall Officers Meet With Council

All officers of Munro Hall met with the Honor Council, last week. The purpose of the meeting was to explain to the officers what the duties of the council are. (On page four there is a story explaining the organization and its functions.)

Some of the new students at C.W.C.E. this quarter who are living at Munro are: Paul Vert, Lynn Strand, Robert Lathrop and Roger Rosin. Two Howards who have moved into the dorm from off campus are: Howard Bothell and Howard Weed.

VETVILLE NEWS

By MRS. KEN KNOWLTON

A new quarter brought about a change here and there; among others, you have a new reporter for your news.

Wading through the bit of snow there is, and with rather numb fingers, I found that Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clemens are now the proud parents of a seven pound seven ounce baby boy, who has been named Michael James. The big event was Thursday, January 15, at 4:00 a. m., but Jim is a 'proud man' in spite of the untimely arrival.

Vetville Mayor and Mrs. Erling Oakland, and daughters, Sandy and Connie Wray, spent last week-end on the coast visiting; leaving Friday noon, and returning Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Belvin Day had as their Sunday dinner visitors last week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Day of Wapato.

When I stopped at the unit home of the Bud Dennis' to see what had been happening, Bud told me he'd just passed a test. He seemed to think that was just about the biggest thing that could happen to him—this week anyway.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dalrymple, and son Bobby, spent Saturday at Harrah visiting Mrs. Dalrymple's mother and father.

Thursday being 'Tea-party Day' Mrs. Ken Knowlton entertained from 2:30 to 5:00. Those attending were: Mrs. Dave Hartl, and son Johnny; Mrs. Bob Dalrymple, and son Bobby; Mrs. John Hofstrand and son Johnny; Mrs. John O'Day and son Denis; Mrs. Bud Dennis and son Doug; Mrs. Hollis Sweeney and the hostess.

Mrs. Don Broughton entertained at the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. Whitfield, Wednesday, January 14, with a stork shower in honor of Mrs. William Pethtel. Many lovely gifts were presented the honoree, with bridge and pinochle the diversions of the evening. Mrs. Jack Shore got high for pinochle and Mrs. Clark Alexander low. Mrs. T. C. Otis got high for bridge, and Mrs. Russell McArthur low.

Thanks for the good work last quarter, GeorgiAnn. We from Vetville thing you did a SWELL job!

Club Council Meeting Postponed Until Wed.

The Interclub Council meeting which was to have been held on Wednesday, January 21, was postponed because of the Herodotean Forum.

Mrs. Hitchcock will entertain the council in her apartment in Kamola Hall next Wednesday, January 28 at 8:30 p. m.

Forrey Keyes will be in charge of an informal discussion of campus problems. Chocolate cake and coffee will be served. All members are urged to attend.

And broke his collar bone.
The doctor should attend the sick
And leave the well done.

House Mothers For CWC Dorms

Three new housemothers have arrived on the campus this quarter. Mrs. Mae Barth succeeds Mrs. Jefferies at Munroe Hall. Mrs. Barth, a former teacher in Illinois was for a number of years house-mother at McMurray College, Jacksonville, Illinois. She came to Washington last year to visit a married daughter who lives in Wenatchee. She has two sons who live in the East.

Mrs. Bernice Cutler of Yakima will succeed Mrs. Ford of Montgomery Hall. She is a graduate of Whitman College. Mrs. Cutler has done extensive work with youth organizations in Yakima, and she has a son and a daughter, both of whom are recent graduates of the University of Washington.

Mrs. Wade of Alford Hall is transferring to Kamola Hall, and she says that she hopes her boys will drop in to see her often there. She will be succeeded in Alford by Mrs. Sears of Yakima, who brings to her new work the experience of being the mother of four grown sons. The Sears family are well known in the state; the late Mr. Sears served for a number of years as Secretary of the Washington Wool Growers Association and Mrs. Sears is well known for her work in P.E.O.

TRUTH ANONYMOUS

After the recent poll taken by the Campus Crier, the girls in Sue Lombard are asking for another one. Only this time they want to find out how many guys miss eating with the girls. Please tell them fellows, cause they sure miss you.

Bill Boden and his two buddies must have really enjoyed themselves last Saturday night. The reason? Sunday morning, their comments caused all the cold water pipes to give out hot water.

Bill Anderson, Burley Davis, Pat Romines and Mike Litven should turn out for baseball. In the mess hall, when the call "throw me a slice of bread" is heard, it is taken literally. Mike is getting pretty good at snagging his out of the potatoes, too.

This week's burned-out light bulb goes to Eunice Knutson who successfully talked to "George" in the library Sunday without slitting his throat.

Nancy Hofacre and Chuck Satterlee have been seen together quite a bit lately. Congrats, you two, you really make a couple.

Pauline Gobel sat next to a guy in the mess hall last week, that was from her home town. In about three minute she was dumb-founded. The question is: Don't the girls from Montgomery know about babies?

Bob Slingland and Harry Flescher played a little game the other night. Each one grabbed the leg of a poor guy and made like a wishbone. It was probably fun for them, but they should carry an extra leg around. He hates a wheel-chair.

Fire Hose Dance Pays For Damage

BY CHUCK ROE

Proceeds from the Fire Hose Benefit Dance will practically pay the debt of the freshman and sophomore classes. The difference will be divided by the two classes.

The dance was held in the women's gym. Music was provided by the juke box. A large group attended.

During intermission, Bonnie Wickholm sang WINTER WONDERLAND and ALWAYS. Art Holcome played a violin solo. These were followed by refreshments of cokes and cookies.

Committees were: dance chairman representing the freshmen class Al Adams, with Mary Nelson and Claude Fredericks making up the social committee of the sophomore class.

Other committes were: music Wilbur C h i n n; refreshments, Claude Fredericks, Dorothy Salfreed; serving committee, Louie Smith, Irene Masters; intermission, Jim Smith, Edith Sandberg; publicity, Dorothy Salfreed, Don Track, Frank Jorgenson; patrons and patronesses committee, Jean Alkana, Trudy Sandberg.

THE SAGA OF SUE

By GAIL FARRELL

In Sue Lombard Hall, room 373, We've gathered to gossip of C.W.C. "It's colder than ever," the comments begin.

"My love keeps me warm," another chimes in.

Then we swoon and we drool about blue eyes or green And bounce on the floor to keep ourselves lean.

"Must do my psych," some unfortunate groans, "He kissed me tonite," comes in shy, gushing tones.

Then we take our knitting and needles start flying O'er bunglers' mistakes and perfectionists sighing.

From down the hall comes a shriek with power, Someone is thrust in an icy cold shower!

This recalls to our mind a movie just seen. So we re-live each moment with a hero serene.

We went to a mixer, my fella and I He danced with another—I think I shall die!!

We sadden our faces with proper regret, While silently thinking, "He'll catch on yet."

Still one's unheard from — she brightens with glee, As though a though struck suddenly. "A scandal," we judge and we're just about right

For we learn the west window was opened last night. We go into a huddle, but all disagree

Upon who the guilty sinner could be So we talk and we knit, we bounce and we sigh, "My gosh," thinks our Father on high,

What an awful place this world would be, If all college rooms were like 373 . . .

A toast: To our sweethearts and wives. May they never meet.

IYOPTIANS GIVE PARTY AT SUE

The new women students and faculty members were honored at a party given for them by the Iyoptians, Sunday afternoon in the East Room of Sue Lombard Hall.

By the large fire in the fireplace, games were played. Prizes were shared by all as each team won a game.

Entertainment was provided by a piano solo by Faye Sethe and Lois McKnight sang two numbers accompanied by Helen McDougall. Helen also provided a music background while refreshments of open faced sandwiches, snowballs, and coffee were served.

Committees for the party were: Refreshments, Olga Belzer and Dorothy Brown; hostesses, Lillian Brooks and Lois McKnight, entertainment Lillian Brooks and Faye Sethe; Invitations, Charlotte Roe Trudy Sandberg, and Marilyn Alexander; clean-up Pat Stevenson and Dorothy Uusitalo.

MR. BIRD GIVES VIOLIN RECITAL

Herbert A. Bird, of the CWC music department, Monday evening entertained students, faculty, and townspeople at his first formal recital since coming to Central.

Mr. Bird presented to the audience a program consisting of many varieties in the form of Bach, Wagner-Auer, Sarasate, and other composers.

Mr. Bird was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Holmes Bird.

THORP-BURREL WED IN PORT TOWNSEND

The marriage of Miss Caroline Francis Thorp, of Port Townsend, to Robert O. Burrell, of Ellensburg, was solemnized January 1, in the Port Townsend Methodist Church.

The bride is the great-great-granddaughter of Fielding M. Thorp, the first white settler in Yakima and the first settler in the Kittitas valley. She majored in home economics with a minor in music at Washington State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrell are now living in Ellensburg where Mr. Burrell, a veteran of more than five years service, is studying a pre-professional course at Central Washington College of Education.

Shores Entertain With Bridge Party

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shore entertained a group of friends with a bridge party at their home in Vetsville last Friday evening.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Genis, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Butcher, and John and Jim Martin. After the game, refreshments of apple pie and coffee were served.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Monday night, January 19, the strains of "Happy Birthday To You" could have been heard coming from room 258, of Sue Lombard Hall. The party honored Eva Eyres. Attending the affair were, Bernadine Myklebust, Georgine McCoy, Eileen Dallas, Carol Ross, Janell Haines, and Ruth Dougherty.

Mrs. Wade Leaves; Alford Boys Blue, Says Doug Poage

BY DOUG POAGE

The Pioneer Housemother of Alford hall, who braved the mud and cold, was transferred last Sunday to Kamola hall assuming duties as assistant housemother. Men at Alford hall felt pretty blue hearing Mrs. Wade was leaving them.

Mrs. Wade came to Central in January 1947, a month before Alford hall was ready for occupancy.

The men at that time were housed at the airport where Mrs. Wade made daily trips to help the students out and to get acquainted.

Replacing Mrs. Wade is Mrs. Ethel Sears, of Yakima. Mrs. Sears has had considerable association with young men raising four of her own, and doing extensive work for the U.S.O. during the war years.

The men of Alford hall wish Mrs. Wade all the luck in the world. To Mrs. Sears they extend the heartiest of welcome to Central Washington's campus.

Dean Nicholson, currently the Wildcats leading scorer, is a sophomore at Central. As a freshman last year Nicholson was named guard on the All-Winco first team. He teamed with Fred Peterson to give scorekeepers a rough night.

Jayvees In Close Win Over Legion

Coming from behind late in the second half the Central Jayvees downed the American Legion quintet 44-40 in a close hard fought game on the floor of the new gym last Friday.

After grabbing an early lead the Jayvees withered under the mid game attack of the Legion sharpshooters to leave the floor on the short end of a 24-19 count at the half.

The second half attack of the Legion started to make a rout of the game but the pace began to tell as the Jayvees crept up on the tired and undermanned Legionnaires.

High scores for the Jayvees were Teller with 15 and Whitson with 10 points. High point men for the Legion were Henley with 16 and Bartlett with 10.

Senior Letterman

Jim Adamson, the only senior on the varsity is playing his fourth season of basketball for the Wildcats. He is one of the returning lettermen from last years squad.

SHORT SHOTS

The big margin by which Central downed St. Martin's last week raised the Wildcat prestige considerably. After the Rangers had dropped three close scoring games with Whitworth and Eastern, the Cats expected a rough game. Instead the Wildcats jumped into an early lead and kept right on pulling away.

Remark of the night: At the St. Martins game one official, Howard Schaub called a jump ball, but "Swede" Lindquist vetoed the call with "No, Jack did it." "Jack" was Jack Graham of Yakima, who was formerly a student of Lindquist.

The return of Fred Peterson brought the Central team up to full strength for the first time since mid-December. Big gun in last week's game was Chuck Long who poured through seventeen counters. Not only that but Long outjumped and outplayed Jack Swartz, 6 foot 9 inch center of the Rangers. Jim Satterlee continued the hard play that has won him a starting berth and a newcomer to the varsity, Harvey Wood, showed plenty of drive.

Don 'd Andrea of P.L.C. makes news again. The big center was picked as the All-American All Opponents center from smaller colleges.

Jack Nichols of the University of Washington had scored 67 points in his first four games. With this pace he could crack the Northern scoring record of 235 points. Even with Nichols hot shooting the Huskies only have an even split in those four games to date. That isn't a good enough average to win any championship.

More on the "U". The Huskies finally have a new grid coach, Howie Odell, formerly head grid coach at Yale. Whether the Coast teams will be happy about Odell's arrival on the coast remains to be seen. One thing is certain, however, Harvard and Princeton are glad he is on the coast. Princeton won only one game in five starts against the Odell coached Elis while Harvard failed to win even one game.

The Yakima Junior College basketball five tallied 190 points in winning three games last week, an average of over 60 tallies per game. That is the same squad Central slaughtered by a 65-36 count during the Christmas holidays.

Eastern's victory over Gonzaga and the Whitworth win over Seattle Pacific were other weekend results. These two wins along with Central's double win over Williamette, Northwest League leaders, makes the Winco league look plenty tough.

The band's performance at the half the other night made some of the spectators look around to see whether they were at a basketball game or a dance. That music was really in there. More power to the band for the half time diversion.

Terse Verse: Whistle toots, Crowd Hoots; Technical Foul, Spectators Howl! Give the officials a break. They are paid to call the games as they see them.

Skiing at the Silver Dollar bowl opened last Sunday, with a new thousand foot tow in operation. This is an ideal spot for beginning skiers as well as those who want to brush up on turns and fancy stuff. Another tow will be in operation soon, giving skiers nearly a half mile run.

Bowlers in Seattle are throwing at a red pin this week. If the pin is still standing after a ball is tossed, the bowler deposits a dime in a box to aid the March of Dimes drive, a mighty worthy cause.

Support Central tomorrow and Saturday nights!

Intramural Rules

A game will consist of four ten minute playing quarters (accumulative time), two minutes between quarters and five minutes between halves. One minute "time outs" will be allowed and no team shall have more than one per quarter. No time outs in last four minutes of play. The games will play a sudden death overtime. First team to score two points will be the winner. If at the end of three minutes overtime one team has scored one point it will be declared the winner.

All games will start ten minutes after obtaining the floor, eg: 9:55 floor is cleared, next game will start at 10:05; or 8:25 floor is cleared next game will start 8:35. All games that are not completed by the designated deadline will be stopped by the time-keeper at the exact deadline time.

If a team is not on the floor at the proper time ready to start play with at least five members of their team, the game will be recorded as a forfeit. If both are absent, both teams will forfeit the game.

Game record forms will be provided for team captains to fill in and sign. The forms will then be given to the game officials who will sign and turn them in to the Intramural office on designated dates.

Managers of teams will be responsible for furnishing the following: One time keeper, one score keeper, and two game officials. The first failure in this matter will mean forfeiture of 50 of the points gained in the activity toward the Nicholson Trophy. The second failure will require elimination of that team from the activity concerned.

All teams competing in the Men's Intramural Association program must comply with the Association's constitution as well with the by-laws peculiar to the activity in which they are participating.

Regular intercollegiate rules will be used for a basis of play.

I.K.'s Initiation Ends This Week

The annual initiation of the Intercollegiate Knights will be completed after a full week's activities as 11 new members will be admitted as members in good standing tomorrow evening, according to Phil George, Guard of the I. K.'s.

The ceremonies will terminate with a pie eating contest to be held at half time of the basketball game against Eastern.

One of the feature attractions of the initiation is the requirement that each initiate carry a sword symbol of the organization. The sword is carried in shifts of eight hours for each initiate. At the end of this eight hour shift he gives it to a fellow initiate. The exchange must take place in front of the sundial by the Ad building regardless of the time of day or night, according to George.

It is traditional for the "W" Club to attempt to take the sword away from the initiates at any time it is left unguarded, or so say the I. K. members.

Another requirement is that the initiate must carry a raw egg, with him at all times during initiation week. This egg must contain the signatures of 16 faculty members including those of the president and the dean of women. Should the egg be broken, the initiate must get another egg and start again.

According to George, new members are selected via the following method. At the beginning of Fall quarter each old member may select any two people to be put on a trial basis. These probable candidates are judged by their service pledges, and then the old members vote to determine who the new members will be. Each year enough new members are selected to keep the local membership up to a par of 30.

Those people who are being initiated this week are; Don Lowe, Harry Bush, Bill Cable, Ben Farrell, Claude Fredricks, Carl Fulkerson, Donicio Tobia, Ronald Nelson, Bill Ranniger, Rodney Knowlton, and Don Mitchell.

The Intercollegiate Knights is a national service organization. It was organized locally in 1936. Its many duties include, the nomination and coronation of the homecoming queen, decorating the ball room for formal dances, and generally assisting in other social and sporting events.

REQUEST TO FILL ACTIVITY CARDS

Seniors are busy these days calling on their favorite professors to ask permission to use their names as references for placement.

The selection of teachers usually begins early in the Winter quarter. The next few weeks will bring as visitors to the campus many principals and superintendents in quest of teachers.

Notices have gone out from the Dean of Women's office to all senior girls requesting them to fill out their activity cards, since faculty members often refer to them when writing recommendations.

Teacher's Meet Here Feb. 9-10

Educators from all counties of the state have been invited to attend a conference on the improvement of teaching to be held at Central Washington College of Education, Ellensburg, February 9 and 10, in co-operation with the state office of Public Instruction, Pres. R. E. McConnell announced this week.

Dr. A. John Bartky, dean of the school of education at Stanford University, will be the principal conference speaker. The conference will deal with the selection, education and in-service training of teachers looking toward the upgrading of school teaching personnel. Ernest L. Muzzall, director of instruction at Central, will be general chairman.

On February 9, the forenoon session will deal with the school program and its requirements for teacher education. The afternoon session of the same day is to deal with the education of teachers. On February 10, the session will deal in the recruitment, selection and in-service education of teachers.

County superintendents, elementary school principals, high school principals and superintendents will attend the conference. All school people are invited to attend, Dr. McConnell said.

TO ATTEND MEET

President R. E. McConnell will attend a meeting of the National Educational Association in Boise, Idaho, on Jan. 26 and 27.

The purpose of the meeting will be to work out plans for action in states on current problems, according to Dr. McConnell.

TAYLOR ADDRESSES COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

"Our policy towards China is one of 'limited liability' while we look toward Europe with a policy of 'unlimited liability!'" said Dr. George E. Taylor, head of the faculty of the Far Eastern Institute of the University of Washington, as he addressed a group of Central Washington College students and faculty members at a school assembly last week.

Speaking on the subject, "American Policy in China," he emphasized a need for a more liberal American policy toward China.

The way of thinking of the average Chinese citizen toward America has changed considerably during the past few years, according to Dr. Taylor. The Chinese formerly looked toward America for aid, with confidence that aid would come, but today the attitude has changed to one of hopeful doubt.

China feels that the United States is giving too much assistance to Japan, former enemy of both nations, and not enough to China, Dr. Taylor said.

Devoting part of his time to explaining reasons for slow developments in China, Taylor stressed the roll that tradition has played in retarding Chinese progress. The difficulty of the Chinese languages was given as one reason for a high illiteracy rate in China.

Contrary to expectations, Dr. Taylor declined to express any opinions on the Chinese political situation. Touching the subject briefly, he said that he believed the withdrawal of American Marines had little bearing on the communist drive.

Dr. Taylor is a native of England. He studied in England and America before going to China in 1930. During the war he served with the Office of the War Information of the Far East.

He became head of the faculty of the Far Eastern Institute of the University of Washington in 1945.

The science department recently received two new short wave receiving sets. The sets, of the most recent design, are part of an allotment given to C.W.C.E. by the government. The supplies are surplus materials that the government has been giving to educational institutes free. The only charge on the order is for transportation.

McArthur Talks To Wesley Club

"The work of the Friends Ambulance Unit in China" was the topic of a speech given to a meeting of the Wesley Foundation by Professor Harold McArthur, of the science department, last Sunday evening.

Talking of his experiences in China, Mr. McArthur stressed the importance of the job done by the Friends Ambulance Unit in China which included trucking and distributing of medical supplies which reached China, the operation of medical teams, assisting the army in operating the hospitals, distributing relief supplies, and others.

The Friends Ambulance Unit was created by the Quaker during the Franco-Prussian war and was continued through both world wars, Mr. McArthur said.

He went on to give a detailed report of the purpose of the unit and his observations as to the success of such an organization.

Near the conclusion of his speech, he stressed the importance of the experience obtained from serving in such a unit for young men. Such experience is just as valuable for the individual as compulsory military training and it is carried out in a democratic fashion, Mr. McArthur said.

In closing he stressed the importance of well trained teams operating in China. Well trained teams of medical men, educators, nurses, engineers, and so forth do much for the advancement of Chinese culture he said.

SAALE MEETS

Charles W. Saale, chairman of the education and psychology division at Central Washington College, met with teachers of the Toppenish public schools Monday and Tuesday of this week. On Monday, he spoke to all teachers at a general meeting on the subject of "The Meaning of Reading." Tuesday's session included discussion periods with elementary school teachers.

Traveler—Yes, this is a cozy little apartment, but I don't see any bath. Landlady—Oh, pardon me! I thought you were another one of those boys from Central that wants a place just for the winter.

THREE SUE GIRLS GO ON AIR SATURDAY

A new and novel way to spend a Saturday afternoon was found on January 17, by Myrtle Hatcher, Mary Lou James, and Corinne Powell, all of the Sue Lombard hall.

They were chosen as contestants on Station KXLE, to participate in the Pacific Northwest Broadcasters Thousand Mile Quiz.

Securing fourth place in the contest, the girls acquired thirty-one points out of a possible fifty.

The girls were escorted to and from the studio by Marty Goshwin, KXLE sportscaster.

Design Magazine Has CW Authors

Central Washington College, the city of Ellensburg and the Kittitas valley form the background for much of the material in the current issue of "Design," national art magazine, which was edited by Miss Josephine Burley and Reino Randall, both of the college art department. The issue is devoted to art in the elementary schools of the state of Washington.

Contributors to this issue of the magazine include well-known educators in the state of Washington, residents and teachers of Ellensburg and members of the Central Washington College staff. Photographs used to illustrate many of the articles were taken in Ellensburg and parts of the valley. Several were taken at the farm of Dr. H. E. Pfenning, valley veterinarian.

Local people who contributed articles are: Mrs. Blanche McCracken, principal and teacher at the Ridgeway Elementary school Ellensburg, who is the author of an article on "Art and Its Place in the Elementary School;" Mrs. George Sogge and Mrs. Eleanor Walker parents of elementary school children, who are co-authors of "The Child at Home With Art;" Miss Ethel Reiman, former children's librarian at the college, with an article on "The Library-The Child and Art;" Miss Alice Marie Jensen kindergarten supervisor at the college contributed an article on "Art for the Young Child;" Miss Sarah Spurgeon of the college art department, in collaboration with Randall has an article on "Organize Your Bulletin Board;" and an article on visual aid material by Miss Burley and Randall.

Mrs. George Homburg, formerly Thora Swanstrom, now a teacher at Lyle, Wash., is author of an article on the intermediate art program. Other contributors include: John Barr, assistant professor of education at the University of Washington; Mrs. A. M. Young, educational director of the Seattle Art Museum and Miss Susan Lacey, supervisor of elementary education for the state

Miss Connie King, former student at C.W.C.E. who is now teaching in Chelan, designed the cover which is built around a photo-montage of local school children participating in art work. Photographs for the magazine were taken by Sam Schroeder, now teaching at Sunny-side, and Warren Scott, C.W.C.E. student.

Randall described the current publication as attempting to cover the field of art from nursery school on, as well as bringing in methods for using visual aid material. He is a permanent member of the advisory staff of the national art magazine.

LIBRARY NOTES

The library has two new fiction books which will make good reading. The first is a novel by H. E. Bates called THE PURPLE LAIN. The author will be remembered for his former best-seller FAIR STOOD THE WIND FOR FRANCE. This new tale is the story of Squadron-Leader Forrester and his struggle for survival in the jungle of Burma. After his young wife was killed on their wedding day, Forrester didn't care whether he lived or not. Then he met Anna, the beautiful Burmese girl. Because he was determined to get back to her, he was able to survive the ordeal of returning after his plane crashed in the jungle. It is a story of strong character, of struggle between man and man, and man and nature, for survival.

The second is the November selection of the Book-of-the-Month club. It is called RED PLUSH by Guy McCrone. The book is a long trilogy of novels in one volume. It is the chronicle of a large well-to-do Scottish family during the 1870's. The scene is Glasgow and although every one of the large family circle is as Scottish as it is possible to be, yet the American reader feels comfortably at home with them. It is a solid tale of solid people. Don't expect surprises or thrills or chills in the book. However, it is a fine story, full of real people, and with a quiet holding power.
