Armory Houses '60 Homecoming

The 11 piece Jackie Sudor orchestra from Seattle will replace the Buddy Morrow band at the Homecoming dance at 9 p.m. Oct. 29 in the Armory, Gary Stainbrook, SGA vice president, said today.

Homecoming chairman, Lili Dodd, has scheduled a Homecoming parade before the Central-Pacific Lutheran football game at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 29.

Committee chairmen are working on plans for other Homecoming events, Stainbrook added.

Yearbook Editor Offers Two Jobs

Both paid and voluntary positions are open on this year's Hyakem staff, Joan Hanlon, editor, said today.

Applications are now being accepted for the position of copy editor which pays $7.50 a month. The non-paying positions of sports editor and division editors are also unfilled.

Photographers are also needed, Miss Hanlon said. They receive $1.50 for each picture used in the Hyakem.

Students should submit letters of application to Miss Hanlon at Box 941, student postoffice.

Interested students are invited to attend a Hyakem meeting on Monday, Oct. 5 at 4 p.m. in the Hyakem office, CUB 211, Miss Hanlon added.

Town Welcomes Central Students

Townpeople will welcome CWCE students to Ellensburg with a western style community breakfast from 9 to 10:30 a.m. tomorrow on Pearl street in the downtown area. Open house in downtown stores and an all college dance from 9 p.m. to midnight in the Armory climax a week of orientation and registration activities.

Tonight's talent show features Frosh in a variety of acts. Get acquainted firesides will be held in the women's dorms following the talent show.

A Welcome Week assembly last Sunday introduced students to the college. After the assembly students met with various college division heads and toured the campus.

Mixers in Stevens-Whitney and Sue Lombard halls highlighted Monday's testing and registration activities. Frosh tasted dorm life at individual dorm meetings after the mixer.

Students were given a chance to investigate campus activities at discussion groups held Tuesday night. Meetings with the dean of men or the dean of women and student adviser conferences rounded out the day's events.

Following registration on Wednesday, initiation activities began. Munson girls wore cardboard Fords while Kamola's "Crazy Dazys" performed a song and dance to a cowbell signal. Wilson Frosh did calisenthics with onions tied around their necks.

Colorful initiation activities continued on Thursday with Frosh Field Day, the Tug of War between men's dorms and individual dorm stunts. Student government leaders explained the purpose of the Student Government Association at a morning assembly.

tant Business Education; Dr. Robert Yee, assistant of Political Science; Dr. Virgil Olson, assistant of social studies; John Kuzara, acting assistant in Geograph; Jack Winans, lecturer in Radio and TV; Waldie Anderson, assistant professor of Music.

Donald Baepler, assistant professor of Zoology; Wilbur Johnson, assistant professor of Physics; Willard Brown, acting assistant professor of Physics; Alan Bergstrom, fifth grade teacher in the College Elementary school; Mrs. Joanne Eckert, teacher of Dance; Mrs. Irene Cleman, superintendent of student teachers; John Fassbinder, instructor in Art; Mrs. Lida Myers, assistant professor of Visual Education; Dave Carnahan, coordinator of closed circuit TV work; Major James H. Keefe, Air Science Faculty; Sgt. Homer S. Hackney, Air Science staff.

Miss Norma Byers is the new dietician. Mrs. Mildred Paul will serve as secretary to the president, Mitchell said.

Young Democrats Host Politicians

The Young Democrats Club of Central Washington College will hold their first meeting on Oct. 4, at 6:30 p.m., in the CES Auditorium.

Lieutenant Governor John Cherberg is expected to attend in addition to the two Legislative candidates from this district, Paul Holmes and Mrs. Kate Glondo, Lee Hastig, president, said today.

Plans for the year will be outlined, and an informal coffee hour will follow, Hastig commented.

Frosh Stand At Threshold As Orientation Week Closes

"Your" week is almost over, frosh. Greetings from your dorm officers; official welcomes and paternal advice from deans, housemothers, the president, your adviser and professors; special mixers, teas, receptions and assemblies—for one whole week you have been the hub around which the wheels and machinery of life on Central's campus have turned. That week is nearly over.

Today marks the end of your introduction to Central and the pleasant or unpleasant confusion of welcomes. You have been greeted, advised and literally pushed into the "swing of things" socially and academically.

You are now "in"—this is now "your" college. The rest is up to you.

No one has guaranteed your success or likewise your failure. Believe it or not this is in no one's hands but your own. Your smiles, your work, your interest, your enthusiasm are the only tools necessary to put you on solid ground in the social and academic life of a college campus and with your brand new college pals. However, to get ahead these tools do have to be used.

All kinds of rich and rewarding experiences lie ahead for the ambitious student who shows enthusiasm. Get out of that dormitory room—join a club, get a job, look in on that astounding world of books in the library and you might even try going to classes.

You'll be amazed at the variety of sizes, shapes and colors the word "opportunity" will take if you take the trouble to go, listen, look, and take part.

Of Frosh and Men

Upperclassmen Bemoan Inevitability Of Disturbance By Freshmen Horde

Last week on this sober institution of education, ambition, hope and lassitude descended a locust-like host which competent experts have diagnosed as freshmen.

A freshman suffers from definitions which describe him variously. In some quarters, and at some times, he is regarded as the transition between the vegetable and animal kingdoms, a motile amoeba with still a trace of plant-like chlorophyll, or greenness, in his jelly like protoplasm.

Frosh Are Here
Whether we like it or not, it must be admitted that the frosh are here.

The frosh, like the poor, shall always be with us. And all that can be done about them has been done during Freshman Week. They have been doused, humbled, downtrodden and compelled to wear pigtailed and caps in order to give the appropriate attitude toward life at Central.

Now that the freshmen have been given the hoist from behind, it is appropriate that they be given the keys to the college, with invitation to make themselves as much at home as their gathered egos will permit. Without further ado, we would enjoy introducing them to several of the familiar college customs.

Customs Defined
Custom I, The Dean. This is a fire-breathing monster which lurks in a cave, the genial guardian of the college. Freshmen enter the cave at their own peril if not covered with life insurance.
Custom II, Midnight Oil. This custom is one which comes into vogue about a week before examinations at the end of the quarter. It is theoretically for the purposes of study. Actually, it is a device whereby one fits himself for the ordeal of the examinations by being too tired to care.

Custom III, The Book. This is a totally innocent-looking compendium of reading material which infrequently infects supposedly immune individuals with the customary occupation disease of "school teacher knowledgitis."

Custom IV, The Football Hero. This is a thing which needs only a caterpillar tread to qualify as an Army tank. It is able to function by itself, but usually is set in motion and driven by an official coordinator, or coach.

The only thing to be said to the frosh is that these customs are inviolate and must be respected, at least in open meeting. Otherwise we heartily and enthusiastically welcome the frosh into our midst, realizing that they aren't really such bad guys.

SGA President Extends Welcome

Speaking on behalf of the SGA, I would like to congratulate you on your success in getting through registration. This is in itself an enormous feat. I can now welcome you, not as prospective students, but as "Sweezyburghers," whatever that term may imply.

This year will be a very trying year for the SGA because of the increased enrollment and the inconveniences caused by the construction on campus.

We on the SGA council hope we will be able to work with each of you at sometime during the year. Again I extend our welcome.

George Selig,
President
Student Government Association

CWC Captain, Three Cadets Earn Honors At ROTC Camp

Recognition for outstanding achievement was given four Centralites this summer at the Air Force Summer Training Unit at Fairchild Air Force Base near Spokane.

Those honored were Duane Gregory, John Kerr, Dale Stager and a member of Central's ROTC staff, Capt. Raymond F. Gerfen.

The summer training unit is actually a four week basic training for AF cadets between their junior and senior year at college. Those cadets who attended the summer camp will enter the regular Air Force as officers upon their graduation.

Gregory was named top cadet in his flight group and ranked among the top five per cent of the approximate 200 cadets at the camp. Stager was rated in the top ten percent.

Kerr Earns Title
Kerr earned the title of top marksman of the four week summer training camp while Capt. Gerfen commanded the group rated as top flight at the camp.

Other attending from Central were Gerald D. Benzel, Barry Broxson, Lambert Buck, Everett Fenton, Joseph Hardwick, Melvin Johnson, Gordon Markham, Douglas Petit and Gary Sterner.

The cadets were divided into eight flights of 25 men each for the four weeks of basic training which started June 19 and closed on July 16.

Activities and instruction followed a pattern of rotation whereby each flight received instruction in all phases of the Air Force operations and program but in a different sequence than other groups.

Cadets Receive Training
Instruction covered included land survival training, use of the carbine and .45 pistol, structure of the KC-185 and B-52 aircraft, base security, and base operations such as radar sections, charting rooms, weather station, and flight and control tower.

Each cadet experienced one high altitude flight in the KC-135 refueler and viewed the F-106 Interceptor considered by the Air Force to be the world's most deadly defense weapon.

Instruction was also given on water survival, indoctrination into high altitude flying, an indoctrination course in flight simulators, and parachute usage.

A compulsory athletic program inclusive of softball, volleyball, basketball and weekly conditioning tests; 28 normally hectic duty days beginning between 3 and 5 a.m.; three social activities, a dance, a luau sponsored by the 45 cadets from the University of Hawaii and the last night's dinner dance rounded out the four weeks of instruction and training.

Momentary Mumblings . . .

BY REED COOPER AND JOE KNIGHTON

Welcome to CWCE—Crowded Washington College of Education. The accompanying cartoon, drawn by the talented pinkies of Joe Knighton, is really not as absurd as it may first appear. The campi is literally crawling with humanity, especially on weekend evenings, when crawling seems to be the only means of moving from place to place. In fact, this is the only campi in the West where you can get bedsores commuting from class to class.

To carry this idea further, there's serious talk of selling tickets entitling couples to the choicest dark corners around the perimeter of the girls' dorms for that goodnite handshake. Inside the dorms, administrators have been musing upon stringing hammocks across the halls. Two of the fellows in one of the Pre-Fabs were candidly caught setting up house in the shower room. Dressed in aqua-lungs, Sweezy bathing suits, flippers and goggles, they casually explained that their newly acquired abode was "the cleanest room in the place, and also the least used!"

But cheer up! By next quarter the population of this institution will have been drastically reduced, due to dormant bookworms and successful candidates for M.R.S. degrees. Until then, however, you'll have to be content with a rather nauseating case of togetherness.

To get on one of our serious tangents, Joe and I want to sincerely congratulate your returning to or beginning an industrious career at Sweezy. We'll be bringing you all the news, providing there IS any news, with an occasional emphasis on the absurd.

So much for this week's momentary mumblings . . .

Freshmen Learn Of Campus From 'Experienced' Students

How did North get on the Central Washington campus? What is a CUB? An Essguy? For what does ROTC stand?

Questions, questions. Freshmen orientation week brings hundreds of unanswered questions, puzzles, and riddles to help confuse students, new and old alike. Here are a few answers to help the freshman gain a better perspective of the campus and campus life.

The letters ROTC are not short for the Royal Order of Tricycle Cops as some of the more rebellious campus males assert. On Central's campus the abbreviation for Reserve Officers Training Corps is usually preceded by the letters A and F. Girls, this means the Air Force is here!

The term "study hours" is entirely misleading as the practice has little to do with actual study. Study hours is a period of time during which all little freshmen are sent to their rooms. This gives the upperclassmen a chance to gloat over their superiority and freshmen a chance to make their beds.

Room inspection is an old tradition at Central. It was created in a big four conference between the house mothers, the dean of housing, the dean of men and the dean of women. Its origin was influenced by the erection of the pre fab Navy barracks temporarily erected on upper campus. Both the tradition and the pre fabs still persist.

Wandering Students Hinder Construction

Students are asked to stay away from construction areas in the CUB and Men's gym, the construction foreman said today.

Traffic in these areas hinders work and may be dangerous to students.

CENTRAL'S FUTURE CUB BALLROOM, seems to hold little promise for immediate use. Construction crews at present are busy ripping out partitions, lockers and showers in the former Men's gymnasium. After thoroughly wrecking the place they will begin the second stage of construction and rebuild it according to the specifications drawn up last spring by the College Union Board and the architects.

Sportlights

BY DON RAMEY

It's about that time of year again when classes begin and football coaches begin to stoke up their ulcers for another season of the great gridiron game. Some guys will do anything for a buck.

Let's take a brief peek at what we can expect from this year's group of head-busters. First off, Street and Smith's football handbook comes out with this report that the Wildcats are going to finish somewhere around third place (like last year.) The reason they give is that the Cats have such a fine group of lettermen returning.

One little fact they overlook is that about half of the lettermen are NOT returning. Some have left via marriage, work—and grades. But every story has its bright side and the Wildcats have theirs. Trainer Bob Cooper and Manager Pete Erickson have splintered and bandaged most of the team enough so that they might play again. And Coach Abe Poffenroth has them at the training table eating. That's right—just eating.

Best prospects for this season, getting back on the serious side, are quarterback Jim Black, halfback Harvey Rath, guard Ruben Rawley, tackles Arnie Tyler and Gordon Townsend and guard John Webley.

Central was further bolstered by transfer and frosh talent. Bill Betcher, Oregon U transfer student, stands 6-1 and weighs a hefty 220 pounds and is a likely prospect to start at center. Arthur Pigg, 175 pound scabbard from Seattle will probably start at one of the halfback posts.

FEARLESS FORECASTS:

Commons, Dorms See Big Change

When Fall quarter classes started today at Central Washington College, students not only found three new buildings going up but some highly remodeled and renovated old buildings.

From the student standpoint, one of the most welcome remodeling jobs is that going on now in the Commons. Here a new serving line and a new entrance are being installed.

"This will mean that we can serve twice as many students in half the time," Dr. Dohn Miller, director of housing and food service, said.

The addition of the serving line will cut down waiting in line for meals.

Work on the addition is being rushed and will be completed as soon as the contractor can get the job finished, Paul Bechtel, director of the physical plant, said.

Bleachers Installed
Additional bleachers were installed at the Leo Nicholson pavilion to insure seating for all at outdoors athletic events. Completed this summer was the track and installed were five asphalt tennis courts.

An irrigation system for the entire turf area was put in. The college grounds crews seeded between 15 and 20 acres and will complete a like amount next year. Bechtel explained that the reason all the land cannot be seeded at once was because a pumping station would not provide enough water to keep the new grass wet since newly planted grass must be kept wet constantly.

Enrollment Figures Exceed Old Records

Launched on what promises to be the biggest year in history, CWCE opened classes today for the fall quarter with all previous enrollment figures shattered, Perry H. Mitchell, acting president, announced today.

Freshman and transfer students number an estimated 1100 this year. Last year's figure was just over 900.

All-college enrollment has been estimated at 2400.

system was finished this summer. The system will have to be extended later as new buildings are added to the campus.

The new Central storage building, going up at a cost of $40,000, will be done in another two months. It is being erected at 7th avenue and Anderson. The money for this structure was voted by the state electorate two years ago when approval was given to Referendum 10.

Also going up with Referendum 10 money are the Education classroom building, being built on Walnut just south of the Milwaukee tracks, and the library just south of the new Education building.

The Education building will be completed in time for the start of classes winter quarter. The contract for the library calls for completion by this time next year.

Replacing the original steps, put in when the Administration building was erected in 1893 are new concrete stairs. New front doors also were installed in the Administration building, oldest structure on the campus.

The classroom building has been remodeled to the extent of acoustic ceilings in all the rooms. Dormitories have been cleaned and repaired in anticipation of their occupancy. The prefabs, which are used to house men students, have been painted.

Vetville Gets Fence
At Vetville, home of married students, a Cyclone fence has been installed to keep students' children confined to the area. Painting has been done and repair work inside on sinks and showers has been started.

Two houses have been renovated for student use. One is the large house, facing Anderson street, a part of the Hickey Motel property. This has been renovated for use as a women's housing unit and named Hickey's manor.

The other is Borge house, on North Walnut, which will be operated this year as a women's independent hall. The house has been renamed Glendauer and will be run along the same manner as Elwood Manor was last year. Elwood Manor, home of 25 men students, operates as an independent house, with its own officers and dining room.

The Eighth Avenue Motor lodge has been taken over by the college for a woman's housing unit also.

Several houses on land recently acquired by the college have been removed and the land will be graveled and used for parking areas. Most of the land is near Wilson hall, north of ninth and east of Chestnut.

Being installed now is a modern gas-fired kiln in the Industrial Arts building.

Requests More Dorms
Request for a government loan to build $2,500,000 worth of new dormitories has been made by Central Washington College, Perry H. Mitchell, acting president, announced earlier this year.

"If the loan goes through, we should have the new dormitories completed in about two and a half years," Mitchell said.

Money has already been granted for a new women's dormitory. Work will be started on this $500,000 structure this fall. It will be erected east of Kennedy Hall.

The new $2,500,000 project will include new dorms for men, women and married students as well as a central eating place similar to Commons.

Band Sponsors Music Session

A concert by the United States Navy Band will highlight Central's first "Band Day" on October 8 for over 1,000 high school and college musicians from 15 institutions.

Led by the Central Washington College band the participating bands will present a half time show at the afternoon CWCE football game. Cdr. Charles Brendler, director of the Navy Band, will conduct the massed bands.

Following the football game the bands will divide for woodwind, brass, and percussion clinics conducted by members of the Navy band.

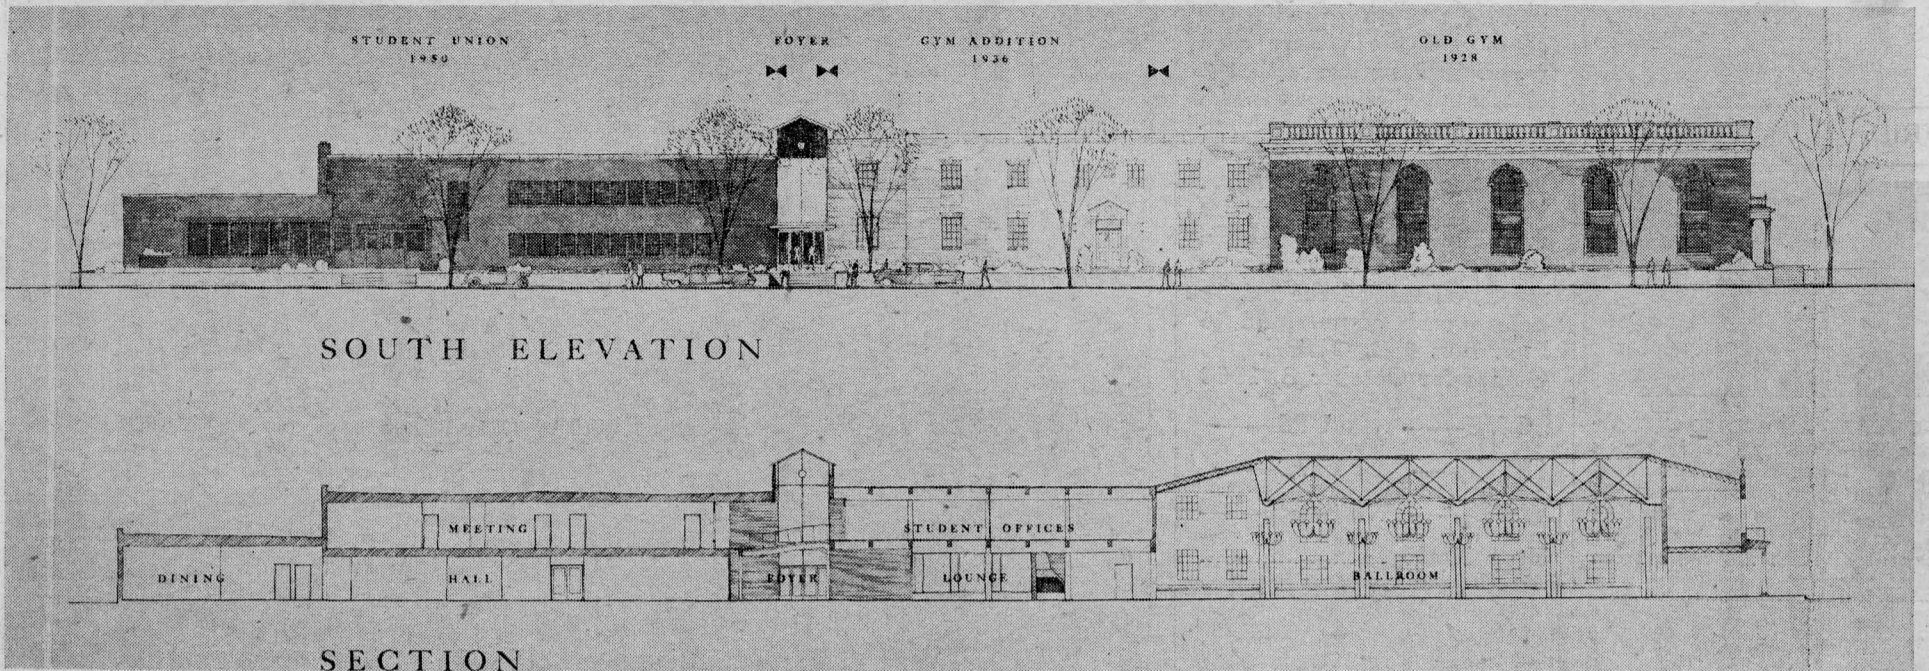

The Navy Band concert will be held in the Nicholson Pavilion and is open to the public.

$341,000 Renovation Of CUB
Includes Ballroom, New Snack Bar

SCALED DRAWINGS OF FUTURE COLLEGE UNION BUILDING

FIREPLACE SEATING

FIREPLACE SEATING IN MAIN LOUNGE OF NEW CUB

Students See Work Begun On Old CUB

An expanded CUB program, greatly increased facilities plus a few luxuries are now in sight for the students at Central Washington College when the $341,000 renovation of the present College Union Building and Men's Gymnasium is completed.

Winter quarter will again see students using the regular CUB snack bar facilities. The remodeled snack bar will feature a true serving counter, more dining area and several private dining rooms as illustrated at left in the architect's drawings in the top picture. Varied recreational activities have been provided for in plans for the space formerly used as the CUB snack bar. Ping pong, chess, checkers, pool, and cards will be offered when the game room is completed.

Foyer Connects Buildings

Connecting the now separate buildings will be a foyer and the main entrance to the new CUB. Long range plans made by the college and SGA foresee an ultra-modern patio connected to a small lounge where the post office now stands. Landscaping and elimination of sidewalks and driveways directly in front of the CUB will eventually change that area into a college mall. When the lounge replaces the student post office, mail will be delivered directly to the dormitories.

Locker and dressing rooms in the former Men's gymnasium will give way to student lounges, three smaller ones and one main lounge. All lounges will be carpeted and the Main lounge will be connected to the CUB ballroom on the right by large sliding doors. Combined Ball room and Main lounge facilities include check rooms, rest rooms, and a small serving kitchen.

The lower picture illustrates the fireplace seating in the Main lounge.

A television room, browsing room, record listening area, poster room and home rooms for campus clubs will also be housed in this section of the new CUB.

Top Floor Houses Offices

Student offices housing the SGA, Campus Crier and Hyakem will be located above the lounges. Both the Crier and Hyakem will have a photographic dark room connected to their offices. These three offices will also feature outside entrances to allow students to work in the offices when the CUB closes for holidays.

All storage space will be located in the basement of the CUB.

Construction was made possible through funds provided by the Housing and Home Finance Authority, a government agency which lends money to various colleges. Approximately $321,000 of the construction costs will be paid through the loan while the CUB funds add approximately $20,000 to reach the total cost of construction, $341,000.

The 20-year loan will be paid back from profits made by the CUB and SGA fees paid each quarter by students.

Construction Started

Construction was begun in the middle of August under a 270 day contract. Snack bar facilities are expected to be in use by Winter quarter while the new CUB as shown in the architect's drawings above will be a reality by the end of February, Dr. T. D. Stinson, dean of men, estimated today.

Architects are Basetti and Morse.

Temporary snack bar facilities have been set up in the Munson Dining room and will be open between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The second floor of the present CUB is now in use and will remain open until the new student offices are available. The SGA office, Campus Crier office, Hyakem office, faculty lounge and several committee rooms are housed on this floor.

The CUB post office will remain in operation throughout this school year and CUB doors will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.
