The Normanites track men are rapidly rounding into the pick of conditioning. Last week, Coach Nugley daily for track was able to report the team at the start, and the men show a great deal of improvement.

Last Saturday, April 24, fair weather brought 1500 fans into both stands, and 440-yard events. Howard Barton took "Pop" Nelson, Randolph Seepi Gillispie, and Bob Trembley, and showed very good form in the distance events and the sprints, with each man in his own event. The following team members completed in these events:

Lee Hall, who is at present unable to appear for practice due to injury, would be well advised to do the high and low hurdles in recent times.

The team that will represent the Normal in the relay carnival at Seattle next Saturday, May 1, will be selected by the coaches. Six or seven men will make the team.

More material is needed in the阵容, as the speed is not quite where it should be yet. The Normal school record in this event.

The afternoon was started off by the beginning of the week, and the team will be developing rapidly in the weight training, and the team will have their own in these events against any probable opponents.

After all the work of plowing and leveling off the ground, done last fall around the library, to give a good foundation for the newly planted grass, the least of the students of the W. S. N. C. can now sit and enjoy the work.

You all know the Boston streets were planned on the paths of wandering cows so let’s not make those paths on our grounds and plan our walks like Boston’s streets.

STAY THE NEWLY PLANTED GRASS AND give it a chance to grow.

Initiatives Put On Stunts For Scribulus Club

COMIC SUPPLEMENT IS GUIDE FOR CHARACTERS WHO OBEY STEREOTYPES

Friday evening the Scribulus club was entertained in the Unit dining room by the Jiggs family, personified by the initiatives. GGlen McNeill and Ethel Buel as Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs played their parts very well and accepted a printed slip by mail which advertised in one of the New York papers stating that for one dollar a method for saving gas will be sent. In two days he received a printed slip by mail with word:—

"There ain't none, ain't that the joke?"

"Flashy sweaters—are—Beau'

"Tacky suits—shame your ears."

"Colors loud—I don’t mean maybe."

"Little hats—Ohhh—liftned hat."—

The little straw hat that drove you mad.

"Just a juggled rainbow not quite right."

—IN FLEWELL.

A city merchant who has a passion for cutting out of town newspaper and also for answering many of the advertisements he finds them this month.

As day he answered an advertisement in the one of the New York papers stating that for one dollar a method for saving gas will be sent. In two days he received a printed slip by mail with word:—

"There ain't none, ain't that the joke?"

Thirty Thousand Veterans of the World War Plan To Attend American Legion Convention in Paris Next Year

SEATTLE Apr. 23—Veterans of the World war from the state of Washington will embark for the 1927 convention of the American Legion in Paris, the port of Montréal on a ship of the Canadian Pacific Line. This information was received today by James V. Drain of Seattle, France convention travel officer of the Legion in Washington, from Bowman Rider of Indianapolis, chairman of the Legion's national France convention travel committee.

The same port will go a small army of Legionnaires making up the delegations from the states of Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. They will enjoy the shortest actual ocean passage possible from the American shores to Europe.

Following the example of President Coolidge and the movement in congress to provide executive employees of the government with ample vacation time in 1927 for the first time in 20 years, it is estimated that 36,000 Legionnaires and their families will take part in the migration back to the distant activities 25 years before. A cordial invitation has been received from France, and preparations are now being made to provide comfortable and ample housing in the French capital.

If Paris the veterans will celebrate the 14th anniversary of the entry of the United States into the World War. They will also visit the battlefields and pay homage to their comrades dead buried in the American cemeteries of France. But what a difference there will be in the great migration in 1927 and the crossing of the A. E. F. in 1917. There will be no packed transports, no sailing of ships laden with the vagaries and traditions of the American merchant marine. Instead, in September, 1917, a gaily decorated fleet of liners will sail down the picturesque St. Lawrence, between winoz, palliated shoals, past the buttressed heights of Old Quebec, to the sun-baked sea of the North Atlantic. There will be plenty of room for everyone, air, luxuriously staterooms, meals prepared under the direction of the best of chefs in de luxe dining saloons. There will be dancing and music every night; deck sports by day or after hours, spent in steamer chairs, courteous stewards to wait upon the ex-doughboys and every comfort that the great ocean liners can provide.

In the return of the veterans to France, Mr. Eldred stated, "we are adopting the democratic procedure of eliminating all restrictions between classes aboard the liners. The veterans, who have saved to obtain the lowest cost transportation will have the same liberties on deck and in the luxurious public rooms of the steamers as the man who has paid for a de luxe suite."

Extremely low rates are to be provided for the Legionnaires who go to France for the 1927 Legion convention. The lowest rate which includes transportation both ways from the Atlantic Steamer Line in France and lodging in Paris, will be about $115. The rates range up to about $450. It is estimated that the entire trip can be made for as little as $30.

This trip back to France in 1927 will not be the first occasion when veterans from the United States have served aboard the Canadian Pacific steamers. During the war every steamship of the Canadian Pacific Line was taken over by the British admiralty for war work. They served as armed cruisers and as transports, carrying more than a million American passengers in the course of the war. Following the entry of the United States into the war, thousands of Americans were conveyed to France by the Canadian Pacific Line. During the entire war only seven men were lost among the more than one million carried through enemy attack.

Following the war the transports and cruisers were recommissioned to the passenger service and are now numbered among the most comfortable and speedy steamers on the North Atlantic.

"We want to make the trip to France next year thoroughly democratic and representative of all those who served in the war," Mr. Eldred declared. "If this is accomplished, Legionnaires of all nationalities must begin saving now. There are already thousands all over the country who are making regular deposits in the official American Legion Savings clubs, organized in specially designed deposits.

Local Legion posts are organizing American Legion Savings clubs with cooperation through such organizations obtained from John Wicker Jr., national travel director for the France convention committee of the Legion.
